Design
Elizabeth Muirhead

MyDBReplicatedServer is the server that extends the MyDBSingleServer class.In the constructor, it initializes the server messenger, which contains all of the local servers. When a message is received from the client, the multicast method attempts to broadcast the messages to all of the nodes. Those messages are received by the handleMessageFromServer method. After the multicast is complete, the message from the client is executed in the database.